ABOUT SIPRI

SIPRI is an independent international institute for research into problems of peace and conflict, especially those of arms control and disarmament. It was established in 1966 to commemorate Sweden's 150 years of unbroken peace. The Institute is financed mainly by a grant proposed by the Swedish Government and subsequently approved by the Swedish Parliament. The staff and the Governing Board are international. The Institute also has an Advisory Committee as an international consultative body.

SIPRI Yearbook 2006

Armaments, Disarmament and International Security

Stockholm International Peace Research Institute

This 37th edition of the SIPRI Yearbook, published as SIPRI celebrates its 40th anniversary, analyses developments in 2005 in:

- Security and conflicts
- Military spending and armaments
- Non-proliferation, arms control and disarmament

The SIPRI Yearbook contains extensive annexes on the implementation of arms control and disarmament agreements and a chronology of events during the year in the area of security and arms control.

Special studies in this volume:

- The world of security and peace research in a 40-year perspective
- Euro-Atlantic security and institutions
- Status and statehood in the Western Balkans
- Major armed conflicts
- Islam, conflict and terrorism
- Peace-building—the new international focus on Africa
- Regional security cooperation in the early 21st century
- National governance of nuclear weapons
- Transparency in the arms life cycle
- A 40-year overview of military expenditure data
- World military expenditure and arms production
- International comparisons of military expenditures
- Developments in the Russian arms industry
- International arms transfers
- The security dimension of European collective efforts in space
- Reflections on continuity and change in arms control
- Nuclear arms control, non-proliferation and world nuclear forces
- Legal aspects of the Indian-US Civil Nuclear Cooperation Initiative
- Multilateral control of the nuclear fuel cycle

- Chemical and biological warfare developments and arms control
- Enhancing bio-security—the need for a global strategy
