

NEW EDITION

Coulson on Construction Adjudication

Second Edition

Sir Peter Coulson, A Justice of the High Court, Queen's Bench Division, Bencher of Gray's Inn

- The only complete guide to the cases and principles relating to construction adjudication
- Provides authoritative commentary by a High Court judge sitting in the Technology and Construction Court
- Comprehensive coverage of the construction provisions in the Local Democracy, Economic Development and Construction Act 2009

This new edition of Coulson on Construction Adjudication provides a definitive up-to-date text, invaluable to all involved in the adjudication process.

Containing new material on the principles of fairness and natural justice, which have been key to many adjudication enforcement decisions, this new edition also contains an expanded section offering practical advice to parties and to adjudicators as to how they can ensure a successful adjudication, and includes new material on the decision.

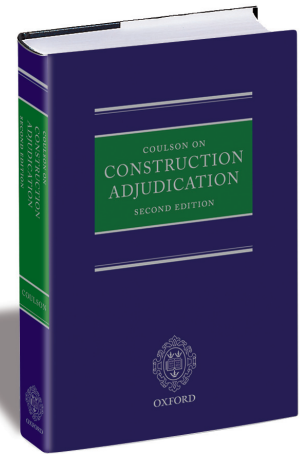

Reviews from the previous edition

"You can't take part in the business of adjudication in building construction cases without this book ... [it] has real authority and experience."

Tony Bingham, Building

"Anyone ... interested in construction and adjudication should not only have this book on their shelf, but should also ensure that they read it."
