The Max Planck Encyclopedia of Public International Law

Rüdiger Wolfrum, Director, Max Planck Institute for International and Comparative Public Law, Heidelberg

"I was very impressed by MPEPIL. I will certainly refer my students"

Professor Brice Dickson, Professor of International and Comparative Law and Director of the Human Rights Centre, School of Law, University of Belfast

"The final component for public international law research is commentary. This component is the hardest to acquire electronically. Westlaw, LexisNexis, and HeinOnline offer databases of law review articles, but serious researchers will also demand treatises-classics of international law, and current monographs. The key building block here is the newly available database, Max Planck Encyclopedia of Public International Law, from Oxford University Press. No PIL collection could attain respectability without this work."

Mary Rumsey, Foreign, Comparative & International Law Librarian, University of Minnesota Law Library

- Fully updated and expanded edition of the leading reference work in international law
- Written by over 800 scholars and practitioners drawn from all over the world
- Edited by an expert team at the Max Planck Institute for International and Comparative Public Law in Heidelberg
- Each article is peer reviewed by the members of the advisory board with relevant specialist expertise

New to this edition

- Reflects modern developments with greatly increased coverage of international criminal law, international dispute settlement, trade law, and environmental law
- More than 700 new topics not covered in the previous edition

This new edition of the definitive reference work on international law contains over 1,500 articles, covering the full history and breadth of public international law which are written by the world's leading experts. Each article includes a carefully selected bibliography of the most important writings as a guide to further reading. The Encyclopedia will be a primary resource for all scholars of international law; counsel, judges and arbitrators involved in international law cases; and government legal advisors.

The Vienna Conventions on the Law of Treaties

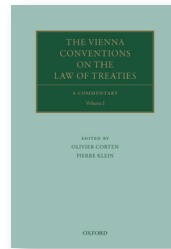

A Commentary

Edited by Olivier Corten, Professor of International Law, Centre of International Law, Université libre de Bruxelles, and Pierre Klein, Professor of International Law, Centre of International Law, Université libre de Bruxelles

These volumes provide both international and national lawyers with an in-depth analysis of each provision of both Conventions. The first part of each commentary is dedicated to the exposition of that provision's object and purpose and to the assessment of its customary status. The second part deals with the main issues of interpretation raised by the provision in question. The 90+ authors who contributed to the book come from twenty different countries and include some of the most respected experts in international law.
