

NEW IN PAPERBACK

China Modernizes

Threat to the West or Model for the Rest?

Randall Peerenboom,
Oxford University Centre
for Socio-Legal Studies

'Peerenboom's appraisal deserves to be heard: it will help the general public who are interested in China and encourage policymakers to reassess their views.'

THESE

Two sharply contrasting views of China exist today. On the one hand a rising superpower predicted to have the largest economy in the world by mid century, on the other hand a brutal, anachronistic and authoritarian regime, a threat to geo-stability and to the economies of the industrial world. So which China is the real China? Randall Peerenboom addresses this question by exploring China's economy, political and legal system, and most controversially, its record on civil, political and personal rights in the context of the developing world. Avoiding polemic and relying on empirical evidence, this book seeks to bridge the gap in understanding about China and to create a firmer foundation for mutual trust, while recognising that there are inevitable risks in a shift in global power of this magnitude that will require hard headed pragmatism at times where interests collide.

April 2008 | 432 pages

978-0-19-922612-2, PAPERBACK

£9.99/$19.95

978-0-19-920834-0, HARDBACK

£18.99/$45.00

South Korea in the Fast Lane*Economic Development and Capital Formation*

Young-Iob Chung, Eastern Michigan University (Emeritus)

The economic development of South Korea has multiplied the nations output and transformed it from an agrarian economy to that of a major industrial power. This book is a study of development of the South Korean economy based on available data with minimal historical description, focusing on investment, the sources and means of capital formation.

2007 | 480 pages | OUPUSA

978-0-19-925245-4, HARDBACK

£26.99/$55.00

The Future of Chinese Capitalism

Choices and Chances

Gordon Redding, Euro-Asia and Comparative Research
Centre, INSEAD, and Michael A. Witt, INSEAD

Much has been said about the re-emergence of China to its historical position of eminence in the world economy, yet little is understood about the kind of economic system China is evolving. What are the rules of the game of business in today's China, and how are they likely to change over the next decades?

2007 | 280 pages

978-0-19-921813-4, HARDBACK

£30.00/$75.00

BIOGRAPHY

Barry Eichengreen

Barry Eichengreen is the George C. Pardee and Helen N. Pardee Professor of Economics and Professor of Political Science at the University of California, Berkeley, where he has taught since 1987. He is also Research Associate of the National Bureau of Economic Research, Research Fellow of the Centre for Economic Policy Research, and a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. He is the convener of the Bellagio Group of academics and economic officials. He has held Guggenheim and Fulbright Fellowships and was a fellow of the Center for Advanced Study in the Behavioral Sciences. Professor Eichengreen has published widely on the history and current operation of the international financial system. His recent books include The European Economy since 1945 (2007) and Global Imbalances and the Lessons of Bretton Woods (2006). He was awarded the University of California, Berkeley's Distinguished Teaching Award in 2004, and received a doctor honoris causa from American University in Paris.

Yung Chul Park

Yung Chul Park is distinguished professor in the division of international studies, Korea University. He served as co-chairmen of the Public Fund Oversight Committee of the Korean government (2005–2007). He was a member of National Economic Advisory Council (2003–2004), ambassador for international economy and trade, Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Trade (2001–2002), and chairman of the board, the Korea Exchange Bank, (1999–2001). He previously served as the chief economic adviser to the President of Korea (1987–1988), as president of the Korea Development Institute (1986–1987), as president of the Korea Institute of Finance (1992–1998), and as a member of the Central Bank of Korea's Monetary Board (1984–1986). He also worked for the International Monetary Fund (1968–1974).

Charles Wyplosz

Charles Wyplosz is Professor of International Economics at the Graduate Institute in Geneva where he is Director of the International Centre for Money and Banking Studies. Currently a member of the Group of Independent Economic Advisors to the President of the European Commission President, of the Panel of Experts of the European Parliament's Economic and Monetary Affairs Committee, and of the 'Bellagio Group', Charles Wyplosz is an occasional consultant to the European Commission, the IMF, the World Bank, the United Nations, the Asian Development Bank, and the Inter-American Development Bank. He has been a member of the 'Conseil d'Analyse Economique' which reports to the Prime Minister of France, of the French Finance Minister's 'Commission des Comptes de la Nation' and has advised the governments of the Russian Federation and of Cyprus.

China, Asia, and the New World Economy

Edited by Barry Eichengreen, University of California, Berkeley, Yung Chul Park, Research Professor, Graduate School of International Studies, Seoul National University, and Charles Wyplosz, Graduate Institute of International Studies, Geneva

This timely collection of fifteen essays by leading economists explores how rapid economic growth in China and elsewhere in Asia is reshaping the world economy.

February 2008 | 432 pages

978-0-19-923589-6, PAPERBACK

£18.99/$39.95

978-0-19-923588-9, HARDBACK

£55.00/$110.00

The Industrialization of Rural China

Chris Bramall, School of East Asian Studies, Sheffield University

Available in...

A welcome addition to a growing literature, this book highlights the economic and social achievements of the Maoist regime. Using a wealth of new data it shows that while many rural industries were initially inefficient, the workers employed in them acquired skills making the creation of a globally competitive Chinese industrial sector possible.

2006 | 448 pages

978-0-19-927593-9, HARDBACK

£61.00/$125.00

China's Telecommunications Revolution

Eric Harwit, University of Hawaii

This book is the most comprehensive text to date examining how China built the largest telecommunications network in the world. It considers the way Chinese companies and the government acted in concert to put telephones and Internet access in the hands of hundreds of millions of people in less than a quarter century, and looks at the economic and political consequences of this telecommunications 'revolution'.

The story of this revolution includes a focus on the Internet and the dilemma the one-party communist government faces in giving its citizens new communications tools. It examines the lively corporate battles over the growth of mobile phones, as well as attempts by foreign companies to profit from the sector's expansion. Finally, it considers whether the revolution has truly spread to all parts of China's citizenry, and how globalization may shape future foreign participation in the still continuing telecommunications revolution.

February 2008 | 272 pages

978-0-19-923374-8, HARDBACK

£50.00/$100.00

NEW IN PAPERBACK

China

Fragile Superpower

Susan Shirk, UC-San Diego's Graduate School of International Relations and Pacific Studies

'In her extremely convincing book, [Shirk] shows that there is another 'emotional' side which, driven by unresolved internal tensions, could still push China into a military confrontation.'

Geoff Dyer, Financial Times

'An eye-opener of a book, drawing on insider sources... Well researched and readable.'

Tribune

Once a sleeping giant, China today is the world's fastest growing economy—the leading manufacturer of cell phones, laptop computers, and digital cameras—a dramatic turn-around that alarms many Westerners. But in China: Fragile Superpower, Susan L. Shirk opens up the black box of Chinese politics and finds that the real danger lies elsewhere—not in China's astonishing growth, but in the deep insecurity of its leaders. China's leaders face a troubling paradox: the more developed and prosperous the country becomes, the more insecure and threatened they feel. growing economy—the leading manufacturer of cell phones. Shirk, a former Deputy Assistant Secretary of State responsible for China, knows many of today's Chinese rulers personally and has studied them for three decades. She offers invaluable insight into how they think—and what they fear. In this revealing book, readers see the world through the eyes of men like President Hu Jintao and former President Jiang Zemin. We discover a fragile communist regime desperate to survive in a society turned upside down by miraculous economic growth and a stunning new openness to the greater world. Indeed, ever since the 1989 pro-democracy protests in Tiananmen Square and the fall of communism in the Soviet Union, Chinese leaders have been haunted by the fear that their days in power are numbered. There is a regime afraid of its own citizens, and this fear motivates many of their decisions when dealing with the U.S. and other foreign nations. In particular, the fervent nationalism of the Chinese people, combined with their passionate resentment of Japan and attachment to Taiwan, have made relations with these two regions a minefield. It is here, Shirk concludes, in the tangled interactions between Japan, Taiwan, China, and the United States, that the greatest danger lies. turn-around that alarms many Westerners. But in China Shirk argues that rising powers such as China tend to provoke wars in large part because other countries mishandle them. Unless we understand China's brittle internal politics and the fears that motivate its leaders, we face the very real possibility of avoidable conflict with China. This book provides that understanding.

September 2008 | 336 pages

978-0-19-537319-6, PAPERBACK

978-0-19-530609-5, HARDBACK

£8.99/$16.95

£15.99/$27.00

Promise, Trust and Evolution

Managing the Commons of South Asia

Edited by Rucha Ghate, SHODH and IFRI, Indiana University, Narpat Jodha, International Centre for Integrated Mountain Development, Nepal, and Pranab Mukhopadhyay, Goa University, India

See page 32 for more information.

January 2008 | 416 pages

978-0-19-921383-2, HARDBACK

£45.00/$89.95

NEW EDITION

The Japanese Economy

suitable as a student text

SECOND EDITION

David Flath, North Carolina State University

'It is a well-written, lucid and attractive book, and should be recommended reading for all students of Japan's economy and business. Its broad historical sweep should make it appealing to business historians, too, particularly those with an interest in economics.'

Business History

Despite recent upheavals, Japan remains one of the dominant economic powers at the end of the twentieth century. Yet the Japanese economy is one of the most misunderstood phenomena in the modern world. Aimed at graduate courses on Japan, this book will be indispensable both for students and instructors alike. Lucid explanations and comprehensive and rigorous analysis make it a natural choice for any interested in comprehending the rise of the Japanese economy.

2005 | 292 pages

978-0-19-927861-9, HARDBACK

£25.00/$55.00

Modern China

A Very Short Introduction

Rana Mitter, University of Oxford

'If 13-year-old Tom Daley, representing Britain in the diving, wants a short primer to China to read on the plane to Beijing, this book could be the answer...Short as it is, Mitters offering is cerebral enough for a Confucian scholar.'

Paul Routledge, Tribune

China today is never out of the news: from human rights controversies and the continued legacy of Tiananmen Square, to global coverage of the Beijing Olympics, and the Chinese 'economic miracle'. It seems a country of contradictions: a peasant society with some of the world's most futuristic cities, heir to an ancient civilization that is still trying to find a modern identity. This Very Short Introduction offers the reader with no previous knowledge of China a variety of ways to understand the world's most populous nation, giving a short, integrated picture of modern Chinese society, culture, economy, politics and art.

February 2008 | 168 pages

978-0-19-922802-7, PAPERBACK

£6.99/$11.95

Visit the OUP Economics website today for:

- Full contents lists
- Sample chapters
- Catalogue requests

Please visit www.oup.com/uk/economics