

'I'll climb up a tree,' said the bear, 'and keep watch. I'll let you know when they're coming.'

But his eyes were closing, and soon he was snoring, just like the other two.

Not long after, along came Widow Fox and Samson Cat. They pushed the door open and went inside the badger's lair.

'Where is everyone?' said Widow Fox.

'I don't know,' said Samson, 'but look at all those pies!'

'And look at all that honey!' said Widow Fox.

Without saying another word, they began to stuff themselves.